Govt should import wheat by itself: PEW

Saeed Ahmed

Islamabad

The Pakistan Economy Watch (PEW) on Sunday asked the government not to depend on the private sector to balance shortage of staple and initiate wheat and sugar imports by itself without further delay.

The government has allowed import of ten million tonnes of wheat which is a good decision but the volume should be increased to fifteen million tonnes to calm the market and foil the unholly designs of the mafia, said Dr. Murtaza Mughal, President PEW.

He said that presently the price of wheat in the international market is affordable therefore imports should not be delayed.

Dr. Murtaza Mughal who is also Convener FPCCI Central Standing Committee on Insurance said that government should cancel permits and impose heavy fines on those businessmen who are delaying wheat imports as they are part of the mafia.

He said that sugar mills mafia continue to exploit government, masses, and farmers for decades. Their activities should be countered by allowing the import of sugar without any regulatory duty.

The influence of sugar mafia will deter many from importing sugar while private parties may not like to take the risk of importing the sugar due to availability of unknown quantity sugar stocks with the sugar mills.

Therefore, he said, Trading Corporation of Pakistan should be tasked for importing sugar which should be supplied to masses, whole-sellers, and retailers through Utility Stores Corporation.

The government should also establish the sale points across the country so that masses can get edibles at affordable prices, he suggested. This is the only way to force sugar barons to bring their hidden stocks of sweetener to the market which will stabilize its price.

The Pakistan Economic Watch (PEW) on Saturday urged the government not to depend on the private sector to balance shortfalls of staple and nutritive wheat and sugar imports by it self without further delay.

Businessmen who are deeply involved in the import of wheat said they are part of the media, said Dr Murtaza Wajid President PEW. He said that sugar mills must continue to exploit government, traders and farmers for decades. Their activities should be countered by allowing the import of sugar without any regulatory duty. The influence of sugar mills will deter many from importing sugar while people may not like to take the risk of importing the sugar due to availability of unknown quantity sugar stocks with the sugar mills.

Therefore, he said, Trading Corporation of Pakistan should be tasked for importing sugar which should be supplied to masses, whether-sellers, and non-takers through Utility Stores. Central Standing Committee should also establish the state-owned wheat millies at afford points across the country so that business could continue at afford-able prices, he suggested.

Govt asked to import wheat, sugar immediately, Trusting private sector for food security

NEWS REPORTER

ISLAMABAD, The Pakistan Economy Watch (PEW) on Sunday asked the government not to depend on the private sector to balance shortage of staple and initiate wheat and sugar imports by itself without further delay.

The government has allowed import of ten million tonnes of wheat which is a good decision but the volume should be increased to fifteen million tonnes to calm the market and foil the unholy designs of the mafia, said Dr. Murtaza Mughal, President PEW.

He said that presently the price of wheat in the international market is affordable therefore imports should not be delayed.

Dr. Murtaza Mughal who is also Convener FPCCI Central Standing Committee on Insurance said that government should cancel permits and impose heavy fines on those businessmen who are delaying wheat imports as they are part of the mafia.

He said that sugar mills mafia continue to exploit government, masses, and farmers for decades. Their activities should be countered by allowing the import of sugar without any regulatory duty.

The influence of sugar mafia will deter many from importing sugar while private parties may not like to take the risk of importing the sugar due to availability of unknown quantity sugar stocks with the sugar mills.

Therefore, he said, Trading Corporation of Pakistan should be tasked for importing sugar which should be supplied to masses, whole-sellers, and retailers through Utility Stores Corporation.

The government should also establish the sale points across the country so that masses can get edibles at affordable prices, he suggested.

This is the only way to force sugar barons to bring their hidden stocks of sweetener to the market which will stabilize its price.
